Title: Plating optimization for DIN Signal BC male

Details of the Product Changes

1. Concerned Part Numbers
See appendix for part numbers.
2. Description of Changes/News
Due to the global cost impacts to noble metals such as palladium, we would like to inform you of plating optimizations that will be made to our DIN BC product portfolio. Part of this optimization is the implementation of nickel-phosphor plating – a surface that has been tested in the industry for decades.
3. Impact on Product Specification
As historically specified in our DIN portfolio, these connectors maintain the performance level specification according to IEC 60603-2 (DIN 41 612) & IEC 61074-4-113. Due to this, the connectors reach the same technical performance as the previous plated variants. This has been proven with extensive type and intermatability testing.
4. Scheduled Date of Implementation
Implementation: 06/01/2022 Please be aware that during transition phase mixed deliveries (old and new plating) are possible.
5. Identification of Change
As the technical performance is unchanged, the part numbers are maintained with an increase in revision level.
6. Datasheet
For updated specifications and drawings, please check the eCatalogue.
